for abstracts

The French Phonology Network (Réseau Français de Phonologie) is launching a call for abstracts for its 2025 annual conference, the twenty-second in its history. The 2025 edition will be held from July 1st to 3rd in Agadir, Morocco. The conference is sponsored by the research laboratories SFL (UMR 7023, University Paris 8 & CNRS), LPP (UMR 7018 Université Sorbonne Nouvelle & CNRS), and LILDAS (Faculty of Languages, Arts and Human Sciences, Ibn Zohr University).

Submissions anchored in any school or theoretical framework of phonology are welcome. Topics of interest may relate to phonology in general or for specific languages, along synchronic or diachronic dimensions. Topics may focus on, but are not limited to, signal processing, perception, articulation, acquisition, diachrony, dialectology, formalism, epistemology, descriptive phonology and all issues which explicitly deal with phonology and its interfaces.

The meeting will be preceded by a workshop on June 30, devoted to current issues in Amazigh phonology.

Presentations will be given in French or English. When possible, we encourage people to speak in one of these languages, while providing handouts or slides in the other. Presentations will be scheduled for 30-minute time slots (20-25 minutes for presentation and 5-10 minutes for discussion).
